

CORRADO LONATI

HEAD OF CYBERSECURITY STRATEGIC INTELLIGENCE, POLICY AND CULTURE

Intesa Sanpaolo SpA

Corrado Lonati has more than 25 years of experience in cybersecurity, heading operational and governance units focused on the continuous alignment between corporate strategies and cybersecurity priorities; familiar in relations with stakeholders and C-levels leveraging quantitative and measurable data he's aware of the opportunities provided by an inclusive work environment and a continuous growth of the team members' skills.

Graduated in Business Administration at Bocconi University in Milan, after a 8-years-long experience in an advisory company he joined Intesa Sanpaolo Group (formerly Banca Intesa) where he covered several key positions in its security department: IT Risk manager, CERT Officer, Head of Group CSIRT and Threat Intelligence; CSIRT Officer, Head of Cybersecurity by Design. In 2022 he was appointed as Head of Cybersecurity Strategic Intelligence, Policy and Culture with the responsibility to keep the Intesa Sanpaolo Group's policies and guidelines on cybersecurity, business continuity and fraud prevention aligned to future threats scenarios, fostering the security culture of internal and external stakeholders.

He's currently involved at institutional level, taking part in working groups and think tanks organized by significant Italian and European institutions (i.e. EBF, EBA, ABI,..), being a member of the Italian Financial CERT (CERTFin) Board of Directors and a member of several University Steering Committees.